Résumé   Zach Fedor

About

My name is Zach Fedor and I'm a Web Developer. I'm also a story teller, avid rock climber, and self-styled philosopher. My goal is to find a position with experienced developers who will challenge me and help me grow my skill set. You can see some of my work and learn more about me at www.ZachFedor.com

Employment

Currently I am a Web Developer at Tower Marketing, a digital marketing agency located in Lancaster, PA. I design, plan, and build custom sites for local small and medium businesses using modern development tools and practices. Most of our sites are built in PHP on top of WordPress, but some use Drupal or Magento. I collaborate with a team of Project Managers, Designers, SEM Specialists, and other Developers on complete builds, new features, and other maintenance tasks. I also train clients on the use of their new site. From setup to deployment, I've been able to tweak our team's work flow to make it modular and automated.

Skills

- Passionate about learning new things and pick them up quickly
- HTML5 - CSS3 - PHP - Bash - JavaScript - jQuery - MySQL - Python
- WordPress - Themes and Plug-ins
- Git - Sass - Bootstrap - Gulp - Bower - Composer
- Linux - Mac - Windows
- Comfortable with Server Administration and a CLI
- Responsive Design - UX/UI - SEO
- Experience with Adobe Suite

Education

I graduated from Temple University with a Bachelors degree in English and a minor in Digital Media Technologies. However, my education began before college when I taught myself how to build a WordPress theme from scratch. That was in 2010 and I have been learning more every day. As a side project for Tower, I'm working on a customized skeleton theme to replace our reliance on the Genesis Framework. At home, I'm trying to learn Python.
